CP1211 Assignment #1 – HTML

Complete the Linkedin Learning HTML Course: https://www.linkedin.com/learning/html-essential-training-4

Create a "Fan" website.

Choose a theme of something you are passionate about. For example:

- favourite hobby
- favourite sports team
- favourite musician
- favourite vacation destination

On your website, include the following html elements:

- Paragraphs
- Headlines
- Lists
- Quotes
- Links
- Images
- Choose one of an audio or video element

Choose 4 other elements not listed above

Please note that your website will likely not look very good at this point. The goal is just to learn HTML elements. To make your website look nice, you will need to learn CSS.

Evaluation: Total 15 Marks

10 marks for including all of the various elements,

5 marks for content. (Does the website have interesting content related to the topic)

-5/5 – excellent content, great deal of effort shown

-4/5 – basic content, but fits with web site

-3/5 – basic content, information doesn't provide much for someone not familiar with topic

Submission Instructions:

Must be submitted in the correct format to receive marks

Compress the folder containing your html/images/vidoes into a .zip archive and submit the archive. (Do not use .rar or .7z or any other format)

If you are using videos, please try to use short ones.

Example submission screenshots

This is a very open ended assignment so please use your own imagination to determine which elements or theme to use.

TWIN PEAKS

Welcome to the Twin Peaks fansite

"Damn fine coffee"-Dale Cooper

Navigation

- Information About The Show and History
- David Lynch

Twin Peaks is a murder mystery television series that first premiered on April 8th, 1990 on ABC. It was written and created by American novelist Mark Frost and critically acclaimed movie director David Lynch. It was a huge departure from television series at the time, viewers were captivated, tuning in every week to see FBI agent Dale Cooper try to find the killer of a popular high school girl in a rural American community. It garnered a cult following after the series ended and in contemporary times is considered one of the greatest TV shows of all time by reviewers.

Use the navigation list above to find more information about the show or about the director, David Lynch. Check out the bottom of the page to join the mailing list or find additional official links to the show's homepage, IMDB page, and social media links.

Join the mailing list:

Email [   ] [Sign up]

| ▶ 0:00 / 4:54 ─────── 🔊 ⋮ |

Official links
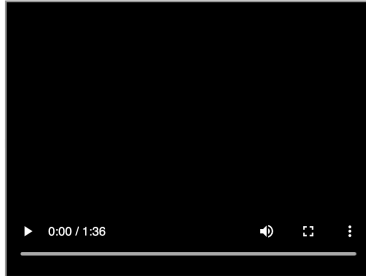

- Official site
- Original series IMDB page
- Twin Peaks Official Twitter

Questions? Comments?

fakeemail123@testsite.com

The Show

Intro

Premise

The story begins with the murder of Laura Palmer, a teenaged girl who lived in the quiet town of Twin Peaks, near the US - Canadian borders. Everyone seems surprised and devastated by the girl's murder, and the town's sherif welcomes the help of FBI agent Dale Cooper, who comes to investigate the case. As Cooper begins his search for Laura's killer, the town's secrets are gradually exposed. This is definitely not an average quiet town, it seems as everyone has something big to hide, During the nights, agent Cooper sees strange visions of Laura and other mysterious people, visions that tell him that something big is happening here, something far more evil than a single murder case...("Twin peaks (TV series 1990–1991)," n.d.)

The show's narrative draws on elements of detective fiction, but its uncanny tone, supernatural elements, and campy, melodramatic portrayal of eccentric characters also pays homage to American soap opera and horror tropes. Like much of Lynch's work, it is distinguished by surrealism, offbeat humor, and distinctive cinematography. The score was composed by Angelo Badalamenti with Lynch.(Wikipedia, 2021)

Since the broadcast of the pilot episode, Twin Peaks earned widespread critical acclaim. The first season earned thirteen Emmy Award nominations—of which it won two awards—a Directors Guild of America Award nomination, and won a Casting Society of America Award, two Golden Globe Awards and two Grammy Awards.(Wikipedia, 2021)

David Lynch

"We're all like detectives in life. There's something at the end of the trail that we're all looking for "-David Lynch

About

Twin peaks was directed by legendary director, painter, visual artist, musician, writer, and occasional actor, David Lynch. Throughout his career he was the recipient of numerous awards including an Academy Honorary Award in 2019, Lynch has received three Academy Award nominations for Best Director, and the César Award for Best Foreign Film twice, as well as the Palme d'Or at the Cannes Film Festival and a Golden Lion award for lifetime achievement at the Venice Film Festival. (Wikipedia, 2021)